Leicestershire

Leicestershire is a beautiful county at the heart of England, a county where timeless villages really do exist and market towns actually live up to the name. With pretty villages steeped in history, rolling landscapes and beautiful market towns, Leicestershire is a county packed with historical facts and fiction.

Welcome to the Britain's multicultural and first "Environment City" Leicester. Leicester has been developed into a major commercial and manufacturing centre with a rich and unique heritage.

Loughborough is a town within the Charnwood Borough of Leicestershire, and the home of prestigious Loughborough University.
